

Threatened CIA Chief

Heckler of Dulles Seized, Claims Hex

An irate Sicilian native was arrested Wednesday on charges of writing threatening postcards to Allen Dulles, Chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Postal Inspectors said Thomas Marchione, 38, of 431 SW 9th Ave., had sent the cards over a period of three years, despite warnings they were illegal.

Dulles, the agents said, got "fed up."

At a hearing before U.S.

Commissioner Roger Davis Marchione complained to Davis that because of a letter written to him years ago by a CIA agent he'd been "partly hexed for a number of years."

In his postcards to Dulles Marchione called it a "black mail letter."

He said he gave it to the FBI for action against the sender, but instead the FBI gave it to the CIA.

Davis held Marchione under $1,000 bond to await federal court action.
